Welcome

"People are the biggest asset of this company."

Since his early days, Sylwester's focus was on good design, quality and style. At the age of 17 he became active in the construction industry. Working on interior finishing projects, he developed his skills and gathered valuable experience. Thanks to the opportunity of working in both polish and dutch markets, he is a specialist who can come up with the best solutions available in both countries. Based on this knowledge and experience, he is now running Pro-Steel - manufacturer and distributor of steel, glass and wooden products.

Opening systems

Different solutions for different needs

Hinged doors

Hinged doors are usually used in spaces where doors can be opened in only one direction. Very often we place them in rooms or in offices, since the amount of room in these spaces is often economically distributed. This is the most popular type of door since it is versatile and easy to install. One very important element is to specify, whether the door opens on the left or right side.

Sliding doors

If you want to save room or are looking for a modern solution to an en-suite apartment or office, sliding doors are the best option. These doors operate with a soft-close system, meaning the sliding makes no significant noise at all. Perfect for meeting rooms, dinner spaces and restaurants.

Swing doors

Swing doors are a fantastic option if you want a luxury and airy look. These doors swing open by being attached to a specific point on the top and bottom, which makes the doors look stylish whichever position it holds at any moment. Both hinged as well as swing doors are available in a multitude of sizes, making these the perfect addition to any modern interior.

Magnetic sliding door system

Thanks to this system, opening and closing the door is limited to a light push of the sash. The electrical system takes over the further opening. The door opens silently and without the use of force. The system can be operated using the smartphone application. The Magnetic sliding door system price: 1250 €
